

ABSTRACT

A blade portion for a hockey stick comprising a wooden shank portion, a blade element made of synthetic material and a ground contacting portion comprising a first segment formed of the lower edge of the wooden shank portion and a second segment formed of the lower edge of the blade element extending from the front side of the wooden shank portion to the distal end of the blade element.